

ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH & SAFETY

Meet your team of experts

ABOUT US

Make UK Environment, Health & Safety (EHS) team provide expert advice, training, and technology to improve EHS knowledge and performance in individuals and organisations.

Utilising our extensive experience in fast-paced, dangerous, and highly regulated environments, alongside our strong partnerships with accreditation bodies, Government and enforcement agencies, Make UK are uniquely positioned to support you in protecting your people and the environment.

Consultancy support is provided on an ad-hoc or membership basis, to resolve a short-term issue or develop long-term strategy, as you require.

We provide a wide range of high-quality off-the-shelf training courses. Alternatively, our team can work with you to design a bespoke training solution that incorporates your policies and procedures and focuses the learning outcomes on your specific requirements.

NATIONAL COVERAGE

Our team provide consultancy and training to help people look after themselves and their colleagues at all times. We do this to help organisations flourish whilst keeping people safe and healthy and having a positive impact on the world around them.

CHRIS NEWSON

BEng (Hons), CFIOOSH, PIEMA

Environment, Health & Safety Director

Chris leads on Make UK's mission to promote and improve health, safety, and environmental management in organisations across the UK. Chris hosts Make UK's EHS podcast, Root Cause Analysis, and is regularly invited to speak at industry events.

Chris started at Make UK (formerly EEF) as HSCE Leader before progressing to Principal Advisor, then Product Development, Delivery Lead and, finally, Head of Learning before his current role. Prior to working for Make UK, Chris was QHSE Manager at Alstom Power.

EHS ADVICE:

Stop worrying about paperwork and concentrate on the behaviours.

DR. WALEED MONTASSER

PhD, MSc, BSc, CEnv, CIWM, MIEMA

Senior Learning & Development Consultant

Waleed provides consultancy and training services in several environmental areas, including waste and resource efficiency audits, net zero gap analysis, environmental management systems, and advice on waste treatment technologies.

He has over 20 years' national and international experience as well as experience working in academia on various research projects.

EHS ADVICE:

When you consider something a waste, do not think it is just a small price to get rid of; there are more costs and energy behind your little action. Remember, rivers came from raindrops.

I am passionate about helping organisations gain competitive advantage in fast-paced and highly regulated environments.

DR. BARBARA HUTTON

PhD, MBA, BSc, DipOSH, CMIOSH, AIEMA

Consultant

Barbara provides health, safety, environmental, quality and sustainability consultancy. Additionally, she complements this by delivering training support for members and sharing her knowledge, expertise, and insight.

Barbara is able to draw upon extensive experience in management across multiple sectors, including manufacturing (pharmaceutical, petrochemical, FMCG), major construction projects and the waste and recycling industry.

EHS ADVICE:

Good EHS relies on foot soldiers, everyone needs to be involved. The best way to achieve this is through ISO accreditation.

MARK STUBBS

CMIOSH, AIFSM

Consultant

Mark provides health and safety advice and guidance to EHS members. Mark is a passionate advocate for the sharing of best practice and leads on Make UK's mission to improve member-to-member engagement.

Mark worked in a variety of health and safety roles in local government, facilities management, and the waste water industry before joining Make UK in June 2019.

EHS ADVICE:

Your health and safety policy should be known and understood by everyone as your set of rules outlining how you intend to keep people safe. Ensure you update and review it as you improve the way you manage health and safety within your business.

BEN UNCLES

DipNCRQ, CertIOSH

Learning & Delivery Consultant

Ben is a passionate health and safety trainer, with a range of experience delivering accredited courses including IOSH and NEBOSH. He proactively engages with people to help develop and embed a positive health and safety culture within organisations.

Ben has 12 years' experience within the manufacturing industry, as well as prior experience in freight forwarding, transport, logistics, and the water sports industry.

EHS ADVICE:

Develop, train and inspire your local teams and supervisors – that's where the passion and drive will make a real difference. People will want and choose to do the right thing, even when no one is 'looking'. That is where true health and safety culture starts, is embedded, and will continue.
